1. Write the following film types under the correct posters: horror, animation, drama, comedy, action, historical, biographical, documentary, musical, thriller, science fiction, romance, action, western, classic, superhero film.

2. Read the following extract of a review and fill in the gaps with the given words:

over-long	anticipation	story	tone
well-developed	trilogy	characters	opinion adaptation

If you didn't love The Lord of the Rings, it's unlikely that The Hobbit: An Unexpected Journey will do much to change your 1)_____. Despite a lighter 2)_____, this is still very much the same world and fans of the critically acclaimed 3)_____ will appreciate the many nods and references to them. The difference between that trilogy and this one is of course the fact that this is an 4)_____ of one book instead of three, so perhaps that's why it leaves you with the impression that it will make for a much better watch when viewed alongside There And Back Again and The Desolation Of Smaug. Occasionally feeling a little 5)_____ (some scenes have a tendency to really drag), it has to be wondered if that's a result of two films being made into three. Regardless, the 6)_____ that is told here is enjoyable and never gets boring. The humour sometimes feels out of place, but hits the mark far often than it misses. It's also fair to say that the main 7)_____ are all 8)_____ enough that the end of the film leaves them in a very different place to the start, while the scene that An Unexpected Journey ends on is the perfect way to build 9)_____ for the next chapter.

3. Here you have some scenes taken from the film. Reorder the scenes and then create your own story starting from the pictures. You can rename the characters and order the pictures as you wish, but keep the same title: The Hobbit: An Unexpected Journey.

After you finish writing your story (at least 2 pages long), exchange it with another classmate and write reviews to each other's writings.
